

FAIL TO MAKE DENT IN TARIFF PROGRAM

REPUBLICANS EVEN WITH AID OF DEMOCRATS, UNABLE TO AMEND THE FREE SCHEDULES.

IMPROVEMENT DOWNED

Effort to Change Metal Schedule is Without Result—Lumber Interests Now Fight Free Wood Schedule.

Washington, May 1.—The wood schedule in the tariff bill, which the anti-lumber advocates were the target of when the house resumed debate on the tariff bill today.

Just before taking up the wood schedule the last paragraph of the later amendments, submitted by Representative Greene of Massachusetts, who said he was acting at the request of democrats in his district, Greene, a republican, declared that the anti-lumber workers in his district who voted for President Wilson, had protested against the Underwood rate of 25 per cent in metals partly composed of platinum silver or gold, or plated.

He said he had received a letter from 104 jewelers who claimed to be democrats, another from the Atleboro democratic local committee, and from the Atleboro democratic local committee in his district protesting against the Underwood rate and urging the amendment of the Payne rates. An effort to restore them was voted down.

A great many evidences of determination to hurry completion of the Panama canal are seen in reports from the isthmus. A new mammoth steam shovel, one of the largest ever built, is being put into operation at the canal. It is reported that the canal would have a channel ready to receive ships through the most troublesome part of the canal by the time the shovels are ready. While the last local estimates of the cost of the canal which could pass through the canal has been some time in October, the rapid progress of the work has some additional rush orders may make it possible for ships to go through earlier.

ANOTHER MILITANT SUFFRAGIST LEADER IS ARRESTED TODAY

Miss Annie Kenney Taken by London Police as Soon as She Returns From Continent.

London, Eng., May 1.—Miss Annie Kenney one of the most prominent of the militant suffragettes, was arrested today as soon as she set foot in England upon her arrival from the continent. A detective had accompanied her from Paris, bearing a warrant charging her with conspiracy.

The police are still in possession of the headquarters of the Women's Social and Political Union, the militant suffragette organization in Kingsway. The telephone switch board in the offices has been placed in charge of a detective.

The members of the militant society are seeking some means of publishing the Suffragette which is due today, but the type and all other printing material were seized yesterday in a raid by the police.

Notwithstanding the activity of the police the campaign of arson conducted by the militant suffragettes was continued this morning. A large stable at Haddon a north-western suburb of London was set on fire and practically destroyed. A placard with the words "Votes, Votes, Beware" was found pasted on the premises.

The British government learns nothing from history. The present coercive measures against the suffragettes are bound to fail.

Mr. H. P. Belmont of New York left for Paris today. Before leaving he said that the suffragettes were selling it on the streets.

SOCIALISTS PARADE THROUGH DEAR OLD LONDON TOWN

SENATE ON RECORD AGAINST ENDORSING A LIMITED SESSION

Turn Down Resolution by Axel Johnson Which Provides for 120-day Limit for Legislature.

Madison, Wis., May 1.—The senate went on record last night against limited legislative sessions by refusing to concur in the assembly resolution, introduced by Axel Johnson, for a constitutional amendment looking to 120-day sessions. The vote was 18 to 9. The various political factions were hopelessly split on the proposition.

Senators Scott, Linley, Randolph and Treadwell opposed it because it called for a submission of the question to the people. Senators Burke, H. C. Martin, Skogmo, Bosshard and Hustung were for unlimited sessions, taking the stand that tight rules on the part of assembly would lead to ill-considered legislation, and they desired to see Wisconsin remain in the front rank of states known for her thoroughness.

Senators Burke and Martin said that Minnesota, with 90-day sessions, is finding her limited time a barrier to well-considered legislation, causing the legislature to pass bills in a hurry towards the end without enough deliberation. Senator Burke said the legislature is costing $1,600 per day, considering the salaries of not a few of its members, but that expense should be no object when the high character of legislation is at stake.

Senator Bosshard said the people are well entitled to demand for shorter sessions that might cripple the legislature's efficiency, and that the legislators, who are not paid by the day, can be depended on to shorten the sessions and yet conserve the state's interests. It was the corporate interests that were clamoring for this limitation, he charged.

Senator Treadwell said his own constituents were asking that the legislature wind up and go home. Senator Bosshard suggested that the legislature should not be so easily moved by introducing fewer bills.

Senator Burke said that new inventions, like the automobile, bring need for new legislation from year to year. He said the legislature is not for the sole purpose of making laws; it was also to give expression to public opinion through the committee system. Senator Scott said the 1909 legislature cost $210,000 and the 1911 legislature cost $215,550, and that they are increasing in expense each successive session. He said there is a widespread demand throughout the state that the sessions be shortened.

Senator H. C. Martin wanted Wisconsin's record on legislation to continue as in the past, and to do this he said there should be no more constructive legislation.

Eau Claire Normal. The senate last night, after setting aside plans for further action on the Ackley bill appropriating $75,000 per year for three years to build a normal school at Eau Claire. The vote was 20 to 8.

Senator Scott led the fight for the school. He was supported by Senator Linley. When the bill came up, Senator Hustung arose to speak. Senator Ackley moved the previous question, a procedure which at that time was not in order. Senator Hustung declined any unworthy motive, leaving it to the senate to dispose of the motion as it desired.

Senator Hustung spoke for more of the institution and its increasing benefits as an investment, together with Eau Claire's logical location and the need for more educational facilities in that section.

NEW YORK TRADES UNIONS HAVE MAY DAY PARADE

MONTENEGRO IS NOT FRIGHTENED A BIT AT THREATS MADE

Despite Fact Powers Want Joint Occupation of Part of Territory They Hold to Original Terms.

London, May 1.—A proposal (that the Montenegrans should occupy Antivari and Dulcigno shall be occupied by a joint international force of Austrian, Italian and British troops) in a demonstration to King Nicholas that the powers are resolved to carry out their decision in regard to Scutari was made at today's meeting of the ambassadors in London.

Should Austria-Hungary accept this middle course its adoption would allow time for further pressure on Montenegro and for an agreement to provide herewith compensation of some kind. The refusal to accept the demand of Europe for the evacuation of Scutari was received today by the powers. It is non-committal in character and keeps the doors open for further negotiations.

The kingdom of "The Black Mountains" tells its neighbor that it has the greatest deference for them and declares the capture of Scutari to be in no way a defiance of their announced policy. It is the same time Montenegro suggests that there is room for discussion and reserves the right of bringing up the question of the evacuation of the course of the peace negotiations.

In the meantime arrangements are in progress for the definite conclusion of peace between the Balkan allies and Turkey. The powers have requested the respective governments to appoint plenipotentiaries who when meeting in London, will be invited to sign a draft of the preliminary terms which will be drawn up. This course has been adopted in order to prevent prolonged discussion.

The moderate tones of Montenegro's reply to the European powers has cleared much of the electricity out of the diplomatic atmosphere. There is now a feeling that an early arrangement will be reached. The impression derived from the diplomats here from the Montenegrans is that King Nicholas is extending his hands waiting for the "compensation" which is to be offered him to quit Scutari.

The powers will not take steps to coerce Montenegro for the present. The ambassador here stated that the attitude of this afternoon came to the conclusion that in view of the conciliatory attitude shown by Montenegro it was not necessary to proceed with immediate measures of coercion.

A large bonfire of one of the lumber camps was torn loose, drifting several hundred feet up the lake, where it was done, but no one was injured.

FIRE BUGS DESTROY BIG TOBACCO SHED

Building Belonging to E. M. Calkins, 1808 Pleasant Street, Burned to Ground Near Midnight.

That an incendiary, possibly having accomplices, is still at large in the city, and pursuing his career of destruction without fear of detection, is an opinion that was strengthened last night when the tobacco warehouse of E. M. Calkins, at 1808 Pleasant street, burned to the ground without there being the slightest evidence to show that the origin of the fire was of an accidental nature. An alarm sent from box 515 at the fire office at 11:45 o'clock announced the fire and the fire department was on the way when a still alarm was sent from the Calkins home. The fire had reached a roof-top when discovered and when the apparatus and firemen reached the place, after a run of a mile and a half, it was apparent that there was no hope of saving the burning building. The department arrived just in time to save the barn which stood in close proximity to the tobacco shed. Nearly two thousand feet of hose had to be laid in order to get water to the fire.

Eight hundred dollars is the estimate of the loss, and four hundred dollars insurance was carried. Fortunately no tobacco was stored in the building, and a few farm tools being housed there.

Chief H. C. Klein finds that there was no truth in the report that Miss Calkins saw three men run across the field simultaneously with the discovery of the fire, or that she was awakened by the sound of their voices. The state fire marshal has been notified of the suspicious nature of the fire.

WEATHER CONDITIONS FOR MAY

After all, what evidence can be produced to show that any other planet than our own is the mode of human life? This is the question which a gentleman who is kind enough to say that he has found these monthly maps and articles useful and interesting, but who thinks it a waste of time and paper to discuss fantastic impossibilities, such as life on Venus or Mercury. Other letters put similar questions without the added protest.

The problem of life is the most fascinating of all that astronomy has set themselves to solve. As to direct evidence, there is none. At present there can be none.

The highest power of the greatest telescope would not suffice to show a man in the moon, or a neighbor in space. A city like New York or a great work like the Panama canal could readily be seen and would furnish conclusive proof of the existence of intelligent beings. But there is nothing like this to see. Astronomers have been studying the moon nightly for 200 years or more. Except for a landslip or two and certain mysteries, of periodic color changes, nothing has been certain seen to happen.

Changes on the Floors of Lunar Craters.

These color changes, which are seen on the level floors of several lunar craters, suggest the agency of life. They might well be explained by the growth of some sort of vegetation that spreads a sort of greenish carpet over the surface during the long lunar day, only to shrivel and die in the absolute cold of night.

Some distinguished astronomers favor this view. Others believe that these tints are merely light effects, due to the broken nature of the surface. Others again believe that the same thing like fog or low-lying clouds, which would argue that the moon is not entirely airless, and that some low forms of life as we know it might exist.

So far as the existence of human life or anything akin to it is concerned, the surface of the moon shows us nothing. This does not mean that low forms of life may not, at one time, have inhabited our satellite. The earth was one too hot to sustain life and will one day be too cold. The period of inhabitation of any planet must be a small fraction of its total term.

Mars, Its Climate and Its Water.

Mars is the only other heavenly body of which any one asserts that it furnishes visual evidence of the existence of life. And Mars is so remote that the greatest work of our century would be unnoticed by its hypothetical inhabitants, provided their powers and instruments of observation were no better than ours. It never comes closer to us than 33,000 miles. The moon's mean distance is 240,000 miles.

But physical conditions on Mars do not, like those on the moon, bar the possibility of intelligent life. Mars has an atmosphere, thinner, it is true, than ours. It has water and clouds. Its day and night are almost like our own. Spring, summer, fall and winter follow one another there as here. As Mars' year is only of 687 days, its seasons are nearly twice as long as ours. Its poles are surrounded by great caps of snow and ice, which shrink and grow with the change of seasons. Although Mars receives much less solar energy than the earth, its climate appears to compare favorably with it. Schiaparelli says it "must resemble that of a clear day upon a high mountain." Certainly conditions on Mars differ less from those on earth than is the case with any other member of the solar system.

It was Prof. Schiaparelli who, in 1877, announced the discovery of the "Martian canals," straight lines which form a curious network on the rusty surface of the planet. These are the visual evidence referred to. If these are really artificial canals, dug for the purpose of irrigation, as Percival Lowell and others have labored to show, they demonstrate the existence of a race beside which we earth-dwellers are pygmies in power and achievement.

Moons That 'Undoubtedly' Are Inhabited.

The cases of Venus and Mercury have been spoken of in previous articles. None of the planets beyond Mars can be thought of as the present abode of life. Jupiter and Saturn have not yet acquired solid surfaces. They are indeed "semi-suns" high in temperature and perhaps self-luminous to a degree. Of their many moons, some may on this account be regarded as possibly habitable. Camille Flammarion says of several that they "undoubtedly" are inhabited.

This is M. Flammarion's professional opinion, nothing more. But it illustrates a prevalent manner of thinking. In ancient days when sun, moon and stars were thought of only as lights hung in the sky for man's convenience, the notion of "other worlds than ours" could not arise. When it was learned that our sun is only one of uncounted millions, the conclusion that our sun's system of planets and satellites is only one of millions of similar systems became inevitable.

When, within fifty years, the spectroscopic began to show the material unity of all stars and all systems, it became impossible longer to believe that the conditions essential to the birth and maintenance of life could be found in our little corner of creation alone. In other words, the fertile universal field should everywhere else remain barren and unproductive.

New Knowledge Shifts the Burden of Proof.

Looked at from this point of view it becomes almost inadmissible to ask: "What evidence can be produced to show that our planet is the sole abode of human life?" Not "human life" perhaps, though allowing for difference of environment, evolution would follow the same lines everywhere. One thing is certain. In every case, the intelligent, reasoning being would emerge from Nature's battle as the ruler of his own particular state.

Not one of the naked-eye planets is visible this month at the hour of the map. In the southeast the head and heart of Scorpius are just rising; while in the northeast the Northern Cross, in Cygnus, is conspicuous.

Scripture to Prove It.

A young girl was caught kissing her sweetheart a few days ago. Her mother took her to task for such actions, but the girl silenced her by this quotation: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them." The old woman wilted. Memories of old were brought forcibly to her mind.

Must Be Done By Hand.

So far no machine has been found to give satisfaction in sewing the covers on baseballs. Hundreds of thousands of balls are used every year, and they are all hand-sewed. A man working his best can not finish more than three dozen a day.

Observations taken at 9 a. m., 75th meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isotherms (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 50° and 100°. Clear; partly cloudy; cloudy; rain; snow; report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. The barometer is high in the East and low in the Southwest, with a trough of low atmospheric pressure extending from the Southwest to the lake region.

Fair weather prevails throughout the East and South, except in northern New England cloudy throughout the northwestern. The temperature has fallen markedly on the northern plains and there is a steep temperature gradient in Minnesota, South Dakota and Nebraska. Thunderstorms and showers have occurred along this line, is warm in the central and north central states where southerly winds prevail.

Christ Knudson to Erect Four-Flat Apartments at Corner of North Jackson and Ravine Streets.

Christ Knudson will build a new two-story frame apartment building on his property on the corner of North Jackson and the Ravine streets, work on the same to begin within a month. The building will contain four flats, each with five rooms and a bath. The apartments will be provided with modern conveniences and heated with steam heat. The house which now stands on the property will be moved to the rear of the lot and will face Ravine street. Excavation has already been completed.

Bad Case.

"Did you hear about the dreadful mistake Dr. Sawbones made? That man he operated on for appendicitis didn't have what the doctor thought he had?" "Didn't have appendicitis at all, eh?" "Oh, he had appendicitis, all right, but he didn't have any money."

Worth Considering.

We get more out of life. Why shouldn't we put more into it?

WILL STOP COUNTING AND START TEACHING

E. Dana Durand.

Dr. E. Dana Durand, retiring director of the U. S. census, will become a member of the faculty of the University of Minnesota next fall. Dr. Durand, whose title of doctor is not of medicine or of theology, but of philosophy, will stay at the head of the census until a successor is confirmed by the senate. Some opposition has developed in the upper house against the confirmation of J. W. Harris, the Wilson nominee.

The New York Yacht Club has voted to leave the entire matter of the change of Sir Thomas Lipton, for America's cup, either for acceptance or rejection, in the hands of a committee of twelve members of the club. If the committee votes to accept challenge, the committee is empowered to arrange the details and the conditions of the race.

Mayer Hugh Jennings of the Detroiters is using all his recruit pitch in the early part of the baseball season because he believes they can do more damage than when the season is in full swing. He thinks that the pitcher of the youngster, struggling to be retained with the team, makes him more valuable in the spring than in the summer.

Eigen players are enough for any first-class baseball club, declares Manager Harry Hartel of the Toledo Mud-hens. He maintains that the present system of having a young army of players on the squad encourages them to play at times.

Ed O'Brien, pitcher for the Boston Red Sox, struck out twelve Washington players in seven innings the other day. Then he blew up and the Senators won the game.

Because his new owner had no liking for fighters, Battling Nelson, trooper, cleaned up on the half-mile track last year and now is known as a star winter. Star Winter, although officially marked 2:24, is so fast that he is proclaimed a certain 2:06 trotter.

Who says that prize fighting's brutal? The boxing clubs of New York took in nearly a million dollars during the year ending November 1912. The state's share was $49,000. More power to the pigs.

Del Gainer has failed to stand the acid test at first base for the Detroit Tigers. When Ty Cobb gets back into the game Sam Crawford will go to first and Ty will step into right field his original position with the Tigers.

President Woodrow Wilson is an ardent baseball fan if ever there was one. He closed up his engagements on the last day of the Senators played at home and saw all but one of the games the team played during the first home series. The White House attaches have the orange as violently as has the president. Majority Leader Underwood of the House opines that congress will be able to get some business done now that the team has gone away.

There never was a haltpayer willing to pass up his turn in batting practice. That is the main reason, it is said, that golf appeals to players, for there's no fielding in the Scottish national game—one can just whack away. When asked if he didn't like batting as well as fielding, first baseman Miller of the Pittsburgh Pirates said: "Oh, I leave that to the cadaver."

MANY FAST HORSES HERE FOR TRAINING

OVER FORTY ANIMALS FROM MANY DIFFERENT POINTS BEING WORKED OUT AT DRIVING PARK.

GOOD LOCAL MATERIAL

Peter Emmett, Charles Howe, and Jessie McKinney Show up in Good Form—Several More Strings Expected.

Have you paid a visit to the driving park this spring? It is certainly worth one's time to do so. The grass is up so high that there is good grazing for the many stables of horses that have been sent from all over the country and all the two tracks need to make a storm to settle the dust and put them in as fine shape as possible.

Something like a year and a half ago W. F. Tubbs of Chicago, came to Janesville and bought the land and stables formerly owned by the late J. D. McKinney and immediately went to work re-modeling them and also building a fine bungalow there where his trainer and driver resides. These horses are trained and driven by E. H. Erickson and consist of six head, four being trotters and two pacers; Belleona with a record of 2:27 1/4, the other five being green ones without records, but something will be expected of them later in the season.

On entering the park proper the big building which is the first one to the right and was known years ago as the domestic and time area building, is occupied by John Field, where he has commodious box stalls for about twelve head and already has nine head in his string. Here is quartered the trotter Lauden with a record of 2:18 1/4 who was sent to Mr. Field a few days since by Freeport, Illinois; Charlie Howe, a pacer, being owned by Charles Schaller of this city with a record of 2:17 1/4. Jessie C. a fast pacer, owned in this city, who is eligible to the green class. Toddlie Goodenough, a year old trotter of which much is expected, this season probably will be started in the colt class. Toddlie is one of the highest bred ones in this part of the country and was bought by New York early in the winter. Grey Gelding W. S. a three-year old trotter and a big square galloped one and should go fast. Doctor Dunn, a three year old from Whitewater and certainly looks the part of a good trotter, a year old trotter, called Little Joe, also a three year old called Burt Kelly. This is a high bred one and acts like a sure enough trotter.

William Holt occupies a stable to the left as you enter the grounds and has in his string five head, Jessie McKinney, 2:19 1/4, heads the string; Angus Axworthy a three year old who showed last year in his two year old form that he could be a contender in almost any country in his class, winning second money last season over a classy lot, both in Janesville and Beloit; Daisy Caboul a green trotter; Mildred Axworthy, while only one year old looks like a sure enough winner and is a half sister to Angus. J. C. N. a pacer and a fine looking that can go fast, but without a record. These make up the string at present that are trained and driven by William Holt.

La Crosse Horses Here.

W. N. Millard of La Crosse, Wisconsin has a fine stable of four head all of which are trotters. This string is headed by Alexander with a record of 2:15 1/4 over a half mile track; Alice McGregor a four year old with a record of 2:19 1/4 and much is expected of her this year in her class, as she has a world of speed.

These two horses are owned by Col. C. L. Hood of La Crosse who is an assemblyman of that district. Col. Hood has always been a fancier of good trotters and pacers and for many years has had more or less of them that were famous in their day and among the others that he owned was one called White Owl, who up to the time he died or at least for that entire season never was beaten.

President Joe is another fast one and two year old Lockwood W. are both young and fast trotters, owned by Mr. Millard himself. Mr. Millard expects two more from the northern country by the middle of next week.

Six From Rockford.

E. J. Weeks of Rockford also has a string of good ones consisting of six head, Taylor Gratton, a pacer 2:17 1/4; Ceshona, a fast pacer with a record of 2:14 1/4; Scotty, 2:17 1/4; a pacer; Besie Hal with no record, also a pacer; and two other green trotters who he expects to start in the colt class later in the season.

J. W. Harman of this city is quartered across the way with two class ones as well as this city's first. The first is Peter Emmett, a fast pacer and while he is no relation of Peter the Great, he is a great Peter just the same. He started in many races last year and in all these seemed to the wise ones in the grand stand to be looking for second place rather than first.

Peter Emmett in Shape.

Peter Emmett and his stable mate, Mable Riser, who is a fast young four year old trotter, have both been well staked through the northwest coming season and will probably leave here some time in June for their engagements. Most of these stakes are over $1,000 or more and the owners of these two classy horses, Phil Sheridan and Tom Siegel certainly should bring home the money next fall.

W. W. Briggs of Delavan, will arrive here Saturday of this week with six or seven head the star of which will be Six-Cylinder Pen and some others which will be contenders in the green class later in the season.

After looking over the stables which are already quartered at the park it certainly looks as though the meeting given last season left a good taste in the mouths of horsemen, for probably no track in the country has as many good ones quartered as early in the season as Janesville, and as the dates for the coming meeting have already been announced, all we have to do now is a little boasting till the bell rings.

"THE PRICE"

Clarence Bennett and Company will present Edna Marshall at the Myers theatre on Saturday May 17 for an engagement of matinee and evening.

"The Price" is frank in its appeal to the emotions, and it is in this frankness that so much of the strength of the play lies. It is a story of an emotional people. On the surface, we may not seem to be easily moved yet this is nevertheless true. And no theme more certain to arouse our deepest emotions could have been chosen by George Broadhurst, the author of "The Price" than the one with which he causes his principal character, Ethel Toscani, to struggle until she has to stand before her husband a confessed sinner against the most important of the moral precepts of the world.

The play begins with a straight relation of facts. It develops the birth and upbringing of Ethel Toscani to the time when she becomes secretary of the artist, whom she irresistibly attracts. The fatal step is taken. Then comes the sudden death of the artist and her marriage to the doctor, followed by her ever-present haunting fear that her secret may be discovered and his great love lost. The emotions of the audience so it is said, are played upon at will by this brilliant young actress during evolution of the plot. Particularly in the climax of the third act does Miss Marshall reveal that high art which has brought her to the very front rank of emotional actresses of the present day.

Surely Impossible.

A wag the other day denied that John Bunyan was the author of "The Pilgrim's Progress." Being vehemently contradicted, "Nay," said he, "I question even if he contributed to the work; for it is impossible that a dunce could contribute to any pilgrim's progress."

Ponder This.

"You'll be very sorry some day that you didn't marry." "Well, I'd rather not be married and be sorry I wasn't than be married and sorry I was."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

class feeling on the part of labor and the unemployed against the more fortunate members of society. In Europe the day has come to be looked upon as a moment for popular disturbances and bloody disorders, mob attacks upon law and order, and in every capital of Europe today armed troops were on duty to prevent uprisings that would lead to serious results. In the United States May day is the popular period for the annual migrations of the "hat dwellers," who wander about like the Nomads of the Arabian desert from one favorable location to another. This spirit even infects Janesville and leaves doubt from May first to May first and labor contracts are also usually based on the similar dates. From a general holiday filled with mirth and happiness, May first has become a day of dread and horror and beautiful significance of the day is lost sight of in the modern every day rush of life.

THE BOOSTERS' CLUB.

With the formal organization of the proposed "Twenty-Five Thousand Club" but a few days away, the question of who shall constitute the board of directors is the subject of serious consideration. The committee which has had the preliminary work of organizing the club in this matter when permanent officers are named, and it will not be out of place to demand that the names of Chairman Frank Croak, M. P. Richardson, J. W. Van Heynum, William Kuhlow and S. M. Jacobs be placed on the list of nominations so that the club members can vote for them if they so desire. Mr. Croak is particularly well equipped to become a member of the board of directors and should receive the unanimous support as in fact should Mr. Richardson, Mr. Van Heynum, Mr. Kuhlow and Mr. Jacobs. The nine men selected will not have a bed of roses to lie upon and in order to make the club a success in following out the principles of the people for the people and by the people, it will be necessary to have all interests represented on this board. However this matter will be adjusted at the meeting Monday night and the club members will decide for themselves who they wish for directors who in turn will elect the officers of the new club.

THE LONGEST FLIGHT.

Another approach to flight in an aeroplane which would cross the Atlantic, where the ocean is narrowest, is reported from Europe. The French aviator, Guillaux, started from the frontier of Spain and made a continuous flight to Holland, traversing more than 1,000 miles. He accomplished this feat in a few minutes over twenty-two hours, averaging almost fifty miles an hour. There is a point between Brazil and Africa where the Atlantic is not much over 1,200 miles wide. It would require only a little more than Guillaux's flight to make a continuous air voyage from shore to shore. Indeed, the difference would be so small, in comparison with what he has already done, that it will be strange if he does not try the great flight across the ocean before long or see some other "birdman" achieve that triumph. The aviator or the aeronauts of the future to carry a man across the Atlantic, but this latest flight in a heavier-than-air machine looks like impending victory for the smaller and swifter device.

It seems as though the only safe course for the German aviators to follow is to start at the French frontier and fly away from it.

It begins to look as though the reconciliation between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Clark is a gentleman's agreement and not a merger.

A French scientist declares that man is descended from the bullroger. Which may account for the croakers.

Wonder how it seems to Mr. Bryan to do the scolding act when it's some other fellow that is running amuck.

Maybe the federal government, before it is through with California, will hand it the free imported lemon.

EXPOSURE MOMENT

The Portly Man. Tell you when a fellow's fat his friends all have a notion that they will pull a very easily sight. And say he's surely going to die. If he don't take some exercise.

They tell him he is gainin' fast. He's bigger much this week than last. And on his way to suffer out. So personal are all their views.

In theaters the folks behind Tell him he's got an awful kind show. When on the car he's got the sand To take a seat while women stand. The label him the "hog," you know.

And when he goes to buy a suit. The tailor says: "You big galoot. You'll pay twice what others pay. When he walks by folks cry aloud: 'Oh my, there goes an awful crowd. Must be some side show here to-day.'"

But still, when all is said and done. No matter if he weighs a ton. No vain regrets will he allow. He thinks that every skinny cuss Is knockin' cause he's envious. The fat man's happy, anyhow.

From the Hickeyville Clarion. Amos Perkins, the genial proprietor of our tombstone works, says he has a second-hand tombstone by the name of Johnson for sale and anybody needing one can get it for a very cheap. If its name is not Johnson it can have the legislator change it to Johnson before they pass away. The epitaphs engraved on the tombstone are very appropriate to almost anybody and contain nothing libelous and nothing which would bring a blush of shame to the most fastidious.

Constable Ezra Hand is doing considerable sleuthing these days in an effort to put an end to the wave of crime which has been waving in our midst for some time. William Tibbitts has been maintaining a public drinking cure at his store which is gainin' the law but the constable doesn't dare to go in and arrest Tibbitts for fear the latter will ask him to pay his bill.

caught on the fly. One of J. P. Morgan's former partners says the concentration of money has just begun, but it seems as though it has been concentrated just about as fast as the government could coin it.

An Ohio girl confesses that she has been engaged to five men at one time. In these days of high-cost-of-living a girl cannot overlook any chances.

New Jersey is going to spank the trusts. The public would suggest a baseball bat instead of the customary slipper.

One congressman demands free meat. What does he call those political banquets that he attends?

A New Jersey heiress has married her coachman. It is easy for a husband to get almost any kind of a husband, but good drivers are scarce.

A Russian woman challenged her husband to a sword duel and killed him but there are those women who will still maintain that the tongue is mightier than the sword.

The male population has always believed that something like this would happen some day. A Los Angeles man has hanged himself with a Christmas necktie.

Chief Bacon Rind of the Lites certainly has an expensive and aristocratic home.

TEACHERS IN A BODY TO PETITION BOARD TO INCREASE WAGES

PEDAGOGUES OF CITY GRADED SCHOOLS CLAIM THAT SALARIES ARE TOO LOW.

SESSION IS TONIGHT

Will Present Their Case at a Special Session of the School Commissioners at High School Tonight.

High cost of living and low wages make a poor combination, according to the Janesville graded school teachers, who were petitioned to the school board in a body for a raise in salaries throughout the list. At a special meeting of the school commissioners which is called for tonight at the high school building, the pedagogues will appear to make their claims and present their arguments. Several meetings have already been held by the teachers to outline their campaign and Miss Margaret Peterson, principal of the high school, has been named chairman of the committee in charge.

It is understood that the delegation through its spokesmen, who will submit figures and facts to show that the Janesville teachers are receiving much lower salaries than are paid in cities similar in size to Janesville. They also point out that the quality of the work done in the local schools is of the same high or even higher standard as in schools of the larger cities or where the salaries are more in proportion to the work accomplished.

Just how much of an increase the teachers will ask for has not been learned. Several who were questioned in regard to the matter were inclined to be reticent, indicating that they should ask for advances all along the line from the lower grades to the principalship.

The minimum salary in the high school is $300 a month. One teacher, while the highest wages of a teacher in the graded schools is $300 a month. There are a number of teachers who receive as low as $15 a month. When it is taken into consideration that they work but nine and a half months a year, it can plainly be seen how inadequate is the present wage scale when compared with any other line of employment, requiring the same amount of preparation.

Just what action the school board will take in the matter is at present uncertain, although it is probable that every effort will be made to secure an amicable adjustment of the difficulty.

S. C. Burnham, clerk of the board, stated today that it was not likely that the board would take any action tonight further than to receive the teachers and hear their arguments and contentions. It would be the natural course to refer the entire matter to the teachers' committee of the board, composed of M. Smith, A. Thayer and F. Grant for their consideration to report back to the board meeting next Monday night.

The Monday meeting of the board passes on the elections to the teaching force of all the city schools, together with the amounts to be paid each teacher, so that it is probable that final action will be taken at this session.

There are fifty-six teachers in the city grades, divided as follows: kindergarten, 8; Adams school, 9; Douglas, 4; Garfield, 4; Grant, 4; Jackson, 2; Jefferson, 6; Lincoln, 6; Washington, 7; and Webster, 8. An increase of $5 a month for each of these would amount to about $3,000 a year in the cost of maintenance of the Janesville schools.

MEETING ON MONDAY BE MOST IMPORTANT FOR BOOSTERS' CLUB

Election of Board of Director Will Take Place at Gathering at Myers Theatre.

At the meeting of the proposed "Twenty Five Thousand Club" to be held on Monday evening next at the Myers theatre, the board of directors consisting of all members will take place. This is a most important meeting and it is expected that every member of the organization will be present to take part in the deliberations.

The plan as to the method of electing officers have not as yet been completed but it is expected that the organization committee will decide upon them at a meeting to be held between now and that date. It is possible that a list of eighteen names, nominated by the committee to be named last night, will be voted on the nine receiving the highest number of votes being named directors.

The sale of buttons, or the interest in the matter, has not diminished one bit. The list is growing rapidly and the membership will certainly top the thousand mark named by the organization committee by Monday evening. Boost Janesville is the slogan and while there are a few who prefer to knock, they are few and far between and the grand total of the membership walks of life have joined the organization.

The Program.
It is planned to have a program consisting of music, a few good short addresses and music by the Moore band at the Monday night meeting. The only trouble now appears to be to get the program down enough so as to handle all the other business that will come up.

CHATAUQUA MEETING ON FRIDAY EVENING

As it is an important meeting it is expected that all who are interested in the project will be present. The meeting will be called to order at seven-thirty.

Wise Advice.
Let every dawn of morning be to you as the beginning of life, and every setting sun be to you as the close; then let every one of these short lives leave its sure record of some kindly thing done for others, some goodly strength or knowledge gained for yourselves.—John Ruskin.

Might Do His Best.
An old reprobate of seventy protested, with outstretched hands, to Justice Hawkins against a sentence of 20 years' penal servitude, or "slavery," as he severe, but upright, lordship loved to call it. "Oh, my lord, my lord, I can never do it." "Never mind," came the answer. "Never mind, do as much as you can."

PLANS FOR CLEAN-UP DAY ALL COMPLETED

Teams Start Tomorrow Morning to Carry Away Remnants of Rubbish From Winter's Accumulation. Tomorrow is Arbor day, Fire Prevention day, Clean-up day, each of which will be observed in Janesville, the schools giving especial attention to the celebration of Arbor and Fire Prevention day, which are school holidays throughout the state. All arrangements for "Clean-up day" have been completed, and early tomorrow morning the teams will start, the rounds of the city to collect rubbish from the homes of those who have purchased the clean-up tickets. The teamsters have been instructed by Health Officer S. S. master not to enter any yards with their wagons to load on rubbish or ashes. All material to be hauled must be left on the curb plot between the sidewalk and the curb. It is noticeable that rubbish has been cleaned up earlier this year than usual, and by tomorrow night the city will present a spick-and-span appearance if the majority of its citizens manifest the proper pride and civic spirit. There is no better way to boost Janesville than to make it a "spotless town."

Bullock Ran Amuck.

Some excitement was caused in Wexford (Ireland) the other day, by the vagaries of a bullock, which ran amuck. The animal took refuge in the house of a man named Murphy and climbed the stairs and entered a bedroom. It demolished a large bed and other articles, and then took a "header" into the street twelve or fourteen feet below, bringing with it the window frame and sashes. It escaped into the harbor, and swam about for a considerable time before it was captured by means of boats.

By EMERSON HOUGH

"I don't think so. There are three walls between us. The first you put up when you first met me. The second is what you call traditions, your belief in wasting human life. The third—it's this thing of which you must not speak. Take the case of the girl Lily. She was the actual cause of your getting hurt, of many men being killed. Why?"

"Because she was a runaway slave. The law has to be enforced, property must be protected, even if it costs life sometimes. There'd be no government otherwise. We men have to take our chances in a time like that. The duty is plain."

"How utterly you fail of the truth! That's not why there was blood spilled over her. Do you know who she is?"

"No," he said.

"She is the daughter of your friend, Judge Clayton of the bench of justice in your commonwealth. That is why she wants to run away. After father does not know he is her father. God, has his way of righting such things."

"There are things we must not talk about in this slavery question. Stop! I did not, of course, know this. And Clayton did not know! I have bought Lily from him. I am telling me much."

"I will tell you—that night, when Carlisle would have killed you in your room there, when I afterward put you all on parole."

"Yes, yes."

"I saved you then and sent them away. Do you know why?"

"I suppose it was the horror of more blood."

"I don't think so. I believe it was just for this—for this very talk I'm having now with you. I saved you then so that some day I might demand you as hostage."

"I want you to vote with me," she continued, "for the 'higher law.' I want you to vote with God's poor people. If—"

"Why, sir, if I could only get you to think as Mr. Benton does—a man with your power and influence and faculty for leadership—I'd call this winter well spent—better spent than if I'd been left in Washington."

"Suppose I wanted to change my beliefs, how would I go about it? If a man hasn't got faith, how's he going to get it—by what process can he reach out into the dark and find it? What's the use of his saying he has found faith when he knows he hasn't?"

"I cannot give you any answer. For myself, I have found that faith."

"You would endure much for your convictions?" he demanded suddenly.

"Would you suffer more? Undertake the conversion of a sinner like myself?"

The flame of his eye caught hers in spite of herself. A little flush came into her cheek.

"Tell me," he demanded imperiously, "on what terms?"

"You do not play the game. You would ask me to preach to you—but you would come to see the revival, not to listen to grace. It isn't playing the game."

"But you're seeking converts?"

"I would despise no man in the world so much as a hypocrite—a turncoat! You can't purchase faith in the market place, not any more than—"

"Any more than you can purchase love? But I've been wanting not the sermon, but the preacher. You! You! Yes, it is the truth. I want nothing else in the world so much as you."

"I'd never care for a man who would admit that."

"There never was a woman in the world loved a man who did not."

"Oh, always I try to analyze these things," she went on desperately, "facing him, her eyes somber, her face aglow, her attitude tense. 'I don't see how a woman could care for a man who only cared for her beauty.'"

"Any price, for just that!" he said grimly. "You would be cheap at any cost."

"But a man, even like yourself, sir, would be very cheap if his price was as you say. No turncoat could win me—I'd love him more on his own side yonder threefold wall, with his convictions, than on my side without them. I couldn't be bought cheap as that, nor by a cheap man. I'd never love a man who held himself cheap.

"But then," she added, casting back at him one of his own earlier speeches, "if you only thought as I did, what could we not do together? Ah, life is so little, so short."

"No, no! Stop!" he cried out. "I cannot recant! I cannot give up my convictions or my love, either one; and yet I'm not sure I'm going to have left either one. It's hell, that's what's left for me. But listen. Much as I love you, I'd rather see you marry some other man than think of you never married at all. God never meant a flower such as you to wither, to die, to be wasted. Why, look at you! Look at you! And you say you are to be wasted! God never meant it, so, you beauty, you wonderful woman!"

Even as she was about to speak, drawn by the passion of him, the agony of his cry, there came to the ears of both an arresting sound—one which it seemed to Josephine was not wholly strange to her ears. It was like the cry of a babe, a child's wail, difficult to locate, indefinite in distance.

"What was it?" she whispered. "Did you hear?"

He took her by the arms, looking sadly, mournfully into her face, and said:

"You must go. Once in awhile I forget. It's got to be goodbye between you and me. We'll set tomorrow morning as the time for you to go."

"As I have a witness," he said at last. "I've said. Goodbye."

He crushed her to him once, as though she were no more than a dower, as though he would take the heart of her fragrance. Then, even as she felt the heave of his great body, panting at the touch of her, and at the scent of her hair, he put her back from him with a sob, a groan. He bent and kissed her hands, his lips hot on them, and so left her trembling.

CHAPTER XIII. The Way of a Maid.

Hector had not tarried a second week at Tallwoods before offering his hand and his cooper shop to Jeanne. With Gabrie caution she made delicate inquiry of Hector's father as to the yearly returns and probable future of the cooperage business at St. Genevieve, as to the desirability of the surrounding country upon which the cooperage business must base its own fortunes. All these matters met her approval. Wherefore, the air of Jeanne became tinged with a certain lofty condescension. In her own heart she trembled now, not so much as to her own wisdom or her own future, but as to the meeting which must be had between herself and her mistress.

"Jeanne," demanded Josephine one day, "why are you away so much when I desire you? I have often seen you and that young man yonder in very close conversation. You must have a care."

"Madame," expostulated Jeanne, "it is nothing. I assure you."

"Perhaps, but it is of such things that troubles sometimes come. Tell me, what has this young man said to you?"

"But he has said many things, madame."

"As, for instance, that you please him, that you are beautiful, that you have a voice and hand, a turn of the arm—that you have the manner Parisienne—Jeanne, is it not so?"

"But, yes, madame, and indeed more. I find that young man of excellent judgment, of most discriminating taste. Also he is of an excellent cooperage business in St. Genevieve rounder. Moreover, I find the produce of the grape in this country to increase yearly, so that the business seems to be of a certain future, madame. His community is well founded, the oldest in this portion of the valley. He is young, he has no entanglements—at least so far as I discover. He has an excellent home with his old mother. Ah, well, madame, one might do worse."

"So, then, a cooperage business so promising as that, Jeanne, seems more desirable than my own poor employment? You have no regard for your duty to one who has cared for you, I suppose? You desert me precisely at the time my own affairs require my presence in Washington."

"But, madame, why Washington? Is that our home? What actual home has madame on the face of the earth? Ah, heaven, were only it possible that this may yet be considered! This place so large, so beautiful, so in need of a mistress to control it. Madame says she was carried away against her will. All my life have I dreamed—have I hoped—that some time a man should steal me, to carry me away to some place such as this! And to make love of such a warmness!"

"Jeanne, I forbid you to continue!" The eyes of the mistress had a dangerous sparkle.

"I obey, madame. I am silent. But listen! Now comes this Hector, far more bold and determined than this Mr. Dnnwodee. That assassin, that brute, began, but hesitated. Ah, Hector has not hesitated! Seeing that he would in any case possess myself, would carry me away. I yielded, but with honor and grace, madame."

"You would forsake me?"

"Madame, I confess sometimes in my heart there comes a desire for a home, for a place where one may abide, where one may cease to wander."

Josephine sat silent for a moment. In what direction might she herself now turn even for the humblest friendship? And where was any home now for her? The recreant maid saw something of her mistress' feeling upon her face.

"Madame!" she exclaimed, falling upon her knees in consternation. "To think I would desert you! In my heart resides nothing but loyalty for you. How could you doubt?"

Dinner Stories

A young New Haven man, returning home from a health trip to Col. on, told his father about buying a silver mine for $3,000.

"I knew they'd rope you in!" exclaimed the old man. "So you were ass enough to buy a humbug mine."

"Yes, but I didn't lose anything. I formed a company, and sold half the stock to a Connecticut man for $7,000."

"You did," gasped the old man as he turned white. "I'll bet I'm the one who bought it."

"I know you are," coolly observed the young man as he crossed his legs and tried to appear very much at home.

The eminent scientist was lecturing on the sun's heat. He held his audience spellbound. "It is as an established fact," he was saying, "that the sun is gradually but surely losing its heat, and in the course of some seventy million of years it will be exhausted; consequently this world of ours will be dead, and like the moon, unable to support any form of life."

At this point, one of his auditors a man, excitedly ran to the speaker and asked:

"Pardon me, professor, but how many years did you say it would be before this calamity overtakes us?"

"Seventy million, sir."

"Thank heavens!" came the relieved reply. "I thought you said ten million!"

Overruled.

"Oh, but, Judge," protested Jinks, when his honor imposed a ten-dollar fine for overspeeding, "look at your roads! No car ever made could have gone over eight miles an hour through that mire."

"That's just it!" said his honor, severely. "Twain's notion! But that there mud of ours as held ye back!"—Harper's Weekly.

Who Was He?

"Father," said a boy of twelve, "who was Shylock?" "What!" exclaimed his father, "have I sent you to Sunday school for the last six or seven years, only to have you ask me who Shylock was! Shame on you! Get your Bible and find out this minute!"—Mother's Magazine.
